The Main Pillars of the Self-reliant India Campaign

Economy, Infrastructure, Technology, Demographics and demand.

Different types of schemes were started for the citizens of the country through the Self-reliant India campaign. So that the economic condition of the country can be improved. The main objective of the Self-reliant India campaign is to improve the economic condition of the country so that the country's economy can be restored to its previous status. For the first time, while announcing an economic package to get rid of the coronavirus worldwide infection Prime Minister Narendra Modi made announcements for the Welfare of Micro, Small and Medium industries. Along with this many announcements were also made for the poor workers and farmers. Prime Minister Narendra Modi has announced an economic package of 20 lakh crore rupees in the direction of making the central government Self-reliant to revive the chaotic and battered economy after the Corona Global pandemic.

Undoubtedly Prime Minister Modi's dream of making it Global for the locals for a vocal that tomorrow can prove to be the basic mantra to convert challenges into opportunities. There are many thorns and challenges in the path of India becoming Self-reliant. Therefore, every citizen of India can take advantage of Gandhi's thoughts and philosophy to make the country self-reliant and make the India of Gandhi's dream come true.

The objective of the Self-reliant India Campaign

There will be awareness among the people under the objective of the self-reliant India campaign scheme 2021 and financial help will be given to the beneficiary. So that poor people do not bow down to anyone. The main objective of this scheme is that during the lockdown all the labor and farmers and businessmen in any state of India, who have suffered losses due to this scheme, will be compensated. Different types of schemes have been started for the citizens of the country through the self-reliant India campaign. so that the economic condition of the country can be improved. under the self-reliant India Employment Scheme, it is a revolutionary step in the direction of compensating for the loss of employment during the Corona transition. The purpose of this scheme is to contribute to the Employees Provident Fund by the government for 2 years on new appointments. This contribution will be 12%- 12% of the salary. Employers will be encouraged to create employment through this scheme. Therefore, the objective of the self-reliant India is that there is a need to revive the chaotic and battered economy after the Corona Global epidemic.

Fact Analysis

Mahatma Gandhi was not only devoted to making India, independent. Rather, the idea of making in India a Self-reliant Economy was also so given in. Mahatma Gandhi's dream of a self-reliant India has become even more relevant at the time of the current worldwide corona crisis. Every citizen of India can benefit from Gandhi's thoughts and philosophy and make the country self-reliant. Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi made a public mention for the first time on 12th may 2020 to realize Gandhi's dream of a self-reliant India. when he was announcing the economic package for the people of India who were suffering from the coronavirus world epidemic. An announcement was made for the Welfare of Micro, small and medium industries under the self-reliant India campaign and also made many announcements for the poor workers and farmers. there is a need to revive the chaotic and battered economy after the Corona global pandemic. the literal meaning of a self-reliant India. not being dependent on anyone else for any particular task, being dependent on self means being able to do that work.

To bring the economy on the track of development in the country under the self-reliant India campaign. A popular phrase by the Prime Minister of India Shri Narendra Modi at the Government of India. The use of this term makes India a larger and more involved part of the world economy, adhering to efficient competitive and compulsive policies that encourage activity and be self-product is done as an umbrella concept. Globalization will not be boycotted in building a self-reliant India but will help in the development of the world.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi had used the word Self-Reliance in June 2014 in relation to Defence manufacturing for Self-Reliance in national security as well. In August 2014 he connected from digital India to self-sufficiency. In September 2014 5 campaigns were highlighted to make the poor self-reliant. Economy, Infrastructure, Technology, Demographics and Demand.

The central government has also announced an economic package of 20 lakh crore rupees in the direction of making the country self-reliant, to bring the economy back on track after the Global epidemic of Corona. Undoubtedly, Prime Minister Modi's dream of making himself a global tomorrow by becoming a local can vocal to be the basic Mantra To convert challenges into opportunities. But as easy as it appears from a distance, it is more complex. There are many Thorns and challenges in the path of India becoming self-reliant. The government will have to deal with those challenges. Only then can the acceptability and prevalence of local be brought to the ground.

After the corona epidemic, many measures have been taken by the government to relieve the migrant laborers and the urban poor from the problems. In this, the migrant laborers have been allowed to use the amount of the State Disaster Response Fund for lodging and food. the central government has given 11000 crores to the state governments to deal with the corona epidemic. So that he can work for them with the help of the State Disaster Response Fund. The government it has taken steps to help the laborers through MANGA. The government has described the work as 14.62 crores Nowadays under MANGA. The Labour code has been arranged by the central government for the workers. This code was accepted to help in the provision of uniform minimum wages across the country. Indeed, the dream of the government led by Prime Minister Modi to make India self-reliant it is in the interest of the country and Society. India could also export Indian-made producers to many countries of the world to meet the needs of the countrymen. However, there are many obstacles and challenges before the government in achieve this goal. Still many tools, Machines and raw materials have to be imported from abroad. There is a need to prepare a master plan to make the imported Machines in India from the experts, technicians and engineers here.

Because many small and big industries are lying closed due to a lack of proper Training of technical expert officers. For this, the central and state government will have to make very strong policies. In the announcement of the general budget by the finance minister of our country Nirmala Sitaraman on 1 February 2021, many announcements were made regarding the self-reliant India campaign. self-reliant India campaign was launched last year to give strength to the economy due to Coronavirus infection. Under the self-reliant India campaign, an investment of 27.1 lakh crore Was made by the government and the Reserve Bank of India. Under the self-reliant India, employment scheme more and more people will be linked to the Employees' Provident Fund. The self-reliant India Employment campaign was Run till 30 June 2021. Only those entities who are registered under EPFO can get benefits under this scheme. Otherwise, he cannot take advantage of the scheme. Among the most important announcement, for the research and development of the covid-19 vaccine covid security mission for research and development of Indian covidvaccine for financial assistance of rupees 900 crores was provided. This financial assistance was provided for the development of biotechnology. One Nation one ration card was also launched on 1st September 2020. under the self-reliant India campaign, about 12 new schemes were launched across the country under the name of 3.1. Due to this India's economy will also get a lot of development. To ensure the success of the basic Mantra given by Prime Minister Modi to make a self-reliant India, every Indian will have to come forward and always be ready to give their best performance.

Conclusion

It is clear from the above facts that to make a self-reliant India in a huge democratic country like India, there is a need for the central and state governments to make a policy is a step by step. India is a country of villages. more than 70% of the people in India live in villages. For this, the younger generation will have to come forward to set up small and micro industries. And this work will have to start from the village of the country itself. in this, all men and women should be insured to participate equally. to give a new direction to self-reliant India, more and more citizens, leaders, government organizations, voluntary organizations and various political parties are and workers will have to come forward, rising above the party and power. For this, there is a need to implement various schemes from villages to cities to bring awareness and bring basic and technical education to the ground level. to realize the dream of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's self-reliant India campaign, the central and state governments will have to come on one platform by rising above the party and taking steps. the goal of making India self-reliant is certainly difficult, But not impossible. by making relentless efforts with a strong will, India can achieve the destination of self-reliance. only then can we realize Gandhi's dream of a self-reliant India.
